

AMERICA in CLASS[®]

from the National Humanities Center

Spring 2016 Webinar Schedule

Teaching War Fiction: "The Red Badge of Courage"

Thu, January 21

Teaching War Fiction: "All Quiet on the Western Front"

Thu, January 28

Teaching War Fiction: "The Things They Carried"

Thu, February 4

Teaching Hemingway

Thu, February 11

Teaching Faulkner

Thu, February 18

Teaching "The Bluest Eye"

Thu, February 25

American Cultural Encounters with East Asia During the Cold War

Thu, March 3

The 1960s in American Memory

Thu, March 10

The 1950s in American Memory

Thu, March 17

Religious Freedom and Religious Intolerance in America

Thu, March 24

Who Started the Cold War?

Tue, March 29

Edward Hopper: Exploring the American Realist Painter

Wed, April 6

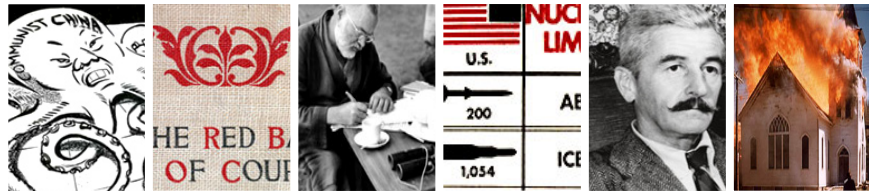

Teaching "On the Road"

Thu, April 14

All seminars are held from 4-5:30pm (Pacific)

rce.csuchico.edu/teachers/nhc

National Humanities Center Professional Development Seminars

A partnership between the National Humanities Center (NHC) and Regional & Continuing Education at CSU, Chico provides California K-12 teachers the opportunity to earn university credits for completing online professional development seminars from the NHC.

Seminars are taught by leading scholars from across the nation and offer concentrated study of specific historical topics. Seminars are live, online, and enable teachers to interact with each other as well as with the faculty scholar.

Through a collaboration with the California Dept. of Education, NHC seminars are free for California K-12 teachers, a $35 savings on each seminar. Upon completion of five seminars, teachers can apply to CSU, Chico for one hour of University credit for a $60 per unit fee, a 75% savings on a series that would otherwise cost teachers $235.

NHC online professional development "is convenient, practical, and a wonderful resource for teachers that want to teach more than a textbook provides. It is an innovative way to bring new materials, content and concepts into your teaching."

Tara M.

► Complete program information, upcoming seminar schedules, registration, and information on how to receive university credit can be found on the Continuing Education Web site at rce.csuchico.edu/teachers/nhc

Regional & Continuing Education

CALIFORNIA STATE UNIVERSITY, CHICO